WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, April 29, 1892.

The storm which was central Thursday morning north of Lake Huron has decreased in energy and covers the St. Lawrence valley. The area of clearing condition which was central over the west and northwest has advanced to the south and east and covers the entire central portion of the country, from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. A storm of slight energy has moved in from the north Pacific and is central over Wyoming.

The weather over the country is generally fair except on the gulf coast, and from Lake Ontario eastward, where it is cloudy and rainy.

The temperature has fallen from 10 to 25 degrees east of the Mississippi river, except on the Atlantic coast. It has risen from 10 to 20 degrees in the vicinity of the storm center in the west; elsewhere it has remained nearly stationary.

The Mississippi river is rising south of Memphis and is above the danger line from Cairo down. At New Orleans it is three feet above the danger line and up to the high water mark of 1891.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity—Fair till Sunday; slowly rising temperature.

You can save money with Dr. Pierce's medicines, if you get the genuine. Suppose they're not the lowest in price—what does that matter? The point that's important is this:—they're the cheapest medicines you can buy at any price, for, with them, you pay only for the good you get. If they ever fail to benefit or cure, you have your money back. Can you ask more?

But, there's only one way to get these genuine guaranteed medicines. To guard against fraud and imposition, they're sold only through druggists regularly authorized as agents, and always at these long-established prices:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (for the liver, blood and lungs), ... $1.00.
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (for woman's weaknesses and ailments), . $1.00.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets (for the liver, stomach and bowels), ... 25 cents.

Beware of fraudulent imitations and dilutions offered at lower prices than the above.

Governor McKinley Snubbed by Foraker,

While His Followers Howl Themselves Hoarse.

The Skyrocket Politician from Hamilton County Outgenerals the Sherman Majority and Then Puts His Fingers to His Nose as it Were.

Staff Correspondence Toledo Bee.

Cleveland, April 29.—Well, the contest of the week at the republican state convention has closed, and the result is a drawn battle. The generalship of Foraker was just a little bit too much for the Shermanites. The latter had the numbers, but there did not appear to be any one of sufficient capacity to direct the forces. Foraker came upon the ground Wednesday, and grasped the situation. Here was a convention with 500 votes to 275 against him, and yet he picked out of it pretty nearly what he desired. As to the relative strength of the factions, the vote for Taylor was entirely from Sherman's followers, as were also a goodly number of those received by Chester, so that there was no question about the anti-Foraker strength.

Conferences were numerous, and every hour an embassy would be sent to Foraker to learn if this or that slate would be satisfactory to him. He had issued his ultimatum, and he would stand by it. His plan was that neither Sherman nor Foster should be chosen, and that so far as his side was concerned, it was Foraker and Bushnell, with McKinley and Gibson. He not only wanted his own half, but intended to dictate who the Sherman men should send. The fighters on the Sherman side determined Wednesday night to send a full delegation of their own kind, and this pleased a great many, but the weak-kneed feared to fight, and this was Foraker's opportunity.

He and his friends remained firm, and the ex-governor stated if the Shermanites attempted to push through the Sherman-Foster-McKinley slate he would get on the floor and introduce one of the liveliest contests ever seen in Ohio. The situation was becoming grave, and yesterday, while the nomination of candidates for secretary of state was being made, and the voting going on, another confab was held at the Forest City house, resulting, after much see-sawing, in the dropping of Gen. Gibson from the Foraker demand, and allowing Bill Hahn to take the coveted place.

How could this be carried through the convention? Gen. Gibson could not have been debarred from election if a vote was taken. That was plain from the minute the old war-horse appeared on Wednesday afternoon. The general solved the question. "I will put the thing through," said he, and he was allowed to work the scheme himself. Gov. Foraker was to take a seat on the platform beside Gov. McKinley and appear nice, and this was done. As soon as the state ticket was completed, Gen. Gibson appeared at the presiding officer's chair, and stating he intended to run the convention for awhile did it to the queen's taste. He delivered a penegyric on the republican party and some of its leaders, and announced he would name a big four to go to Minneapolis, while regretting there was not room for 150 delegates.

The old man stirred the convention to a high pitch, and cries of "Gibson" went up with loud acclaim. He was deaf. Then he named McKinley with a happy reference; next Foraker, who wasn't afraid of earthquakes; next Bill Hahn, who had won two state victories; and then Gen. Bushnell. Amidst a shout of "No! No!" and "Gibson!" he called the delegates to their feet for the advertised harmony, and the General had successfully completed as great a sacrifice as any politician has suffered in some years. Hahn was the beneficiary, and he will owe to Gen. Gibson everlasting gratitude. No other force could have made his election possible under the circumstances.

Completing the program laid out, Gen. Warren Keifer had the second act in charge. He named the four alternates and kept down other names. The alternates on the slate were R. M. Nevin, of Montgomery; E. W. Poe, of Wood; M. M. Boothman, of Williams, and J. F. Atwood, colored, of Brown—half and half.

The Gibson fever broke out again. He was named for presidential elector. He declined, saying he preferred to be postmaster rather than elector. Conger was announced, but he got lost in the deal. Lorenzo Danforth, of Belmont, and Myron T. Herrick, of Cuyahoga, were finally chosen.

And thus ended four days of bluster and wind. Sherman had the delegates, but Foraker managed the machine, just the same.

Now that it is all over, there are several incidents which cause gossip. Of course, Governor Foraker can always be relied on to make a break, in fact, several of them. In his speech to the convention, he declared "we had all come to Cleveland for peace, even if we had to fight for it." In the face of the fact that he had fought and won, the remark was significant. The Forakerites were not slow to catch the thought, and set up a high old howl.

His next break was in the reference to presidential timber. He promised that the delegates would work for the nomination of a candidate who would be satisfactory to the republicans of Ohio. "If it should be the present executive, or the matchless man from Maine, or any other republican," etc. McKinley was sitting at his side. He felt the slight, and so did his friends. It is a matter of common knowledge in Ohio that there is at least talk of McKinley for president, but Mr. Foraker did not recognize it in any shape, when the mere mention would have done no harm, and would probably have done Foraker some good. But Foraker is not built that way. His thrusts are keen, and it is likely he intended this one should be as plain as could be made.

Many other galling things occurred. The ex-governor did not intend to go to Minneapolis instructed. He carried the point. "I go as a free lance or not at all." He goes.

The only point he lost on the delegate slate he wanted was that Hahn should remain at home.

Of course, there is considerable twaddle about the harmony that was brought about. The republican newspapers may write about it; it is simply nonsense to say there was harmonious feeling before, at or after the convention, and the future will prove this to be true. A war of extermination is on; neither side will be content till one or the other faction is completely obliterated. The Foraker people have leaders, the boys get their cue and trot along without murmur. Herein lies their success. There are too many leaders in the Sherman rank—top-heavy, as it were. All want their way, and while they are figuring the opposition is carrying its point. In the light of yesterday's convention, the sooner Gen. Gibson is elected commander-in-chief of the Sherman forces the better.

WILL FIX IT IN ENGLAND.

Final Act in the Bering Sea Negotiations.

Washington, April 29.—It has been arranged that the ratifications of the Bering sea treaty of arbitration between the United States and Great Britain shall be exchanged at London next week instead of at Washington, as originally contemplated.

The change is made in order to expedite this final act of the negotiations. The Hon. Robert Lincoln, United States minister to England, has been empowered to act on behalf of the United States and Lord Salisbury will act for her majesty's government.

ODD FELLOWS.

St. Marys, O., April 29.—(Special)—The Odd Fellows of this city, celebrated the seventy-third anniversary of their order last night with appropriate ceremonies.

Rev. Baumgardner delivered an eloquent address on the working and founding of the order, and was attentively listened to by a large crowd of people.

INJURED IN A RUNAWAY.

St. Marys, O., April 29.—(Special)—While returning from a funeral last evening, the team driven by Tom Bice, ran away and collided with a dray, throwing Bice out and dragging him quite a distance. He sustained serious injuries.

THERE WILL BE TROUBLE

Paris Trembles at the Thought of May Day,

And is Making Preparations to Avoid It.

All Gatherings of Workingmen Are to be Prohibited and Every Step Taken to Prevent Riots.

Paris, April 29.—Enormous precautions are being taken by the government to suppress any anarchist disturbance on May day.

Three cavalry regiments have been summoned to Paris, making 10 regiments in all that are ready to sweep the streets clear of any mob that may congregate for purposes of mischief.

The men are confined in barracks and the greatest care taken to prevent any communication with them by the enemies of order. Most of the troops now stationed here are well tried and veteran soldiers, with everything to lose and nothing to gain by a failure in the performance of duty, no doubt is felt that they will give a good account of themselves in the event of any outbreak.

Besides the bodies of troops that will be massed wherever disorder is specially feared on May day, smaller bodies will be ambushed in different parts of the city ready to dash out upon any gathering that threatens to become disorderly. The orders to the troops are positive.

They have all been served with ball cartridges and will be commanded to fire, and continue firing on any mob that refuses to disperse. There will be no blank firing or shooting over the heads of the rioters, and prisoners taken in insurrection will be subjected to summary punishment. The government is anxious to gain a reputation for vigor, and the general public are with virtual unanimity in favor of the severest measures.

It is felt that the issue is between order and disorder and that if disorder triumphs there will be a repetition of the commune.

In addition to the troops that are being ordered to Paris the commanders in other parts of France have been directed to hold themselves in readiness for the prompt reinforcement of the capital, should necessity arise. It is believed, however, that the troops at the capital will be able to deal with any emergency, especially as the government is sustained by all the better class of citizens.

M. Loubet has issued a circular to prefects, in which he instructs them as to what they ought to do in order to prevent any breaches of the peace during the labor demonstrations.

All processions, open air meetings and gatherings of workingmen in the streets or in public places are to be prevented.

This rigorous measure will have to be taken as the circular points out, because the leaders of the demonstrations cannot guarantee everything will pass off quietly, nor can they hinder revolutionists and anarchists from taking advantage of large gatherings of people in order to work mischief. The minister of the interior further points out that all popular demonstrations are inopportune on such a date as the first of May, when the municipal elections are to be held all over France, as voters should be enabled to do their electoral duties in peace and security. The prefects are likewise empowered to call upon military forces to assist them should occasion arise. Special and minute instructions on this serious matter have been issued by the minister of war as well as by the minister of the interior.

A circular on the subject of the first of May demonstrations has also been transmitted by the minister of justice to the judicial authorities all over France.

HUNTING IN THE RUINS

Clearing Up the Wreck of the Big Fire.

Another Victim Dies and More Are Suppose to be in the Smouldering Ruins.

Philadelphia, April 29.—A large force of men were at work on the ruins of the Central theater and the Times annex building during the night.

The western wall of the theater was taken down and a search is now being made for the bodies which are supposed to be under the debris.

Thomas Atchison, one of the injured, who was taken to the Pennsylvania hospital, is reported dead this morning. William Quinney, Fred Evans, John Quinney, and A. A. Chambers, who were thought to be fatally injured, are still alive, but in a critical condition.

WILL BURN COAL.

St. Mary's O., April 29.—(Special.)—The advance of 7c per cent. in price of gas in this city last week is beginning to have its consequences.

It appears that practical boycot is one topic and demand for wood and coal will be the order of things in St. Marys next winter.

TO BOOM BEN.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 29.—John C. New, consul general at London will return here within two or three weeks. He will resign from the national committee and give all his time to Harrison's campaign.

WILL KILL THE BOY

As Soon as the Father Turns His Way

Toward the Attacked City of Caracas.

Terrible Methods Taken by Palacio

To Learn the Plans of Gen. Crespo.

Great Britain Has Agreed to Aid the Government in Return for Lands Ceded to Queen Victoria by Palacio.

New York, April 29.—A special to the Herald from Laguayra, Venezuela, says that on April 18, a quantity of arms from Trinidad, intended for Gen. Crespo, were seized at Ciudad, Bolivar. The government also captured a son of the revolutionist leader, and the young man, it declares, will be executed on the day his father comes within a league of Caracas.

President Palacio also announced that he will subject young Crespo to torture unless Mrs. Crespo divulges her husband's plans.

The government's losses at the battle of Tompit de Colon were 350 men killed and 500 wounded.

Palacio has purchased a large quantity of arms in Trinidad. This confirms the current reports that Palacio has secured the active support of Great Britain in consideration of conceding to that country the disputed territory between Venezuela and British Guiana.

President Palacio maintains a strict censorship over all telegrams sent from the territory over which he still has control. Such reports as do reach the capital are very disheartening to the government. The revolutionists are reported to be gathering arms and ammunition and sums of money are also supplied constantly to Gen. Crespo. Crespo, it is said, has at length begun to move for his headquarters at the southern end of Lake Valencia. It is believed that simultaneously Mora has started toward Valencia. The plan appears to be to attack Valencia, Victoria and Puerto Cabello before moving on Caracas. Palacio's general-in-chief, Casanas, has been captured by Crespo's soldiers.

The situation in Caracas is unchanged, except that the feeling of alarm is becoming greater. Palacio is very much afraid of assassination and keeps himself strongly guarded.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Advices from Washington on the Venezuelan War.

Washington, April 29.—General Bolet Peraza, minister of Venezuela to the United States, has received official advices of the progress of the rebellion in his country by the steamer Caracas, which are dated up to April 19.

General Casanas, commanding the government forces sent against General Crespo, after pacifying the district of Guarico, marched on to the section of Apure in pursuit of the latter, who is flying with about two hundred horsemen in that direction, more than four hundred miles from Caracas. In the meantime every town in Guarico, without exception, has been occupied and is at present garrisoned by the government troops.

In order to understand the real importance of this news it should be known that the rebellion broke out two months ago, but in three instances only did it have any significance. The first revolt was headed by Crespo in the Guarico. This movement was of no material importance, because Crespo did not succeed in getting together enough men to offer battle, but it had a political bearing, because Crespo was the leader of the rebellion and because Guarico was his home.

The second revolutionary center was the state of Los Andes. The political importance of the movement depended on the fact that it was headed by the whole official body of the state, and, furthermore, it was of greater moment because it had from the beginning a fully equipped army.

The third revolutionary center was situated in the state of Zamora. Its importance was due to the facility with the rebels could reach the center of the republic through the section of Cojedes.

With regard to Crespo, the latest news reported by Gen. Casines it to the effect that he has the fugitive leader so harrassed that he does not doubt that he (Crespo) will be obliged to accept the capitulation already offered him.

The official dispatches from the state of Los Andes set forth the complete pacification of that state. This has been effected by three army corps of the government which occupy the whole of the state.

Reports from the state of Zamora state that the rebellious faction has been almost annihilated by defeats and desertions.

The rest of the republic is in peace. Respecting the financial condition of the government, due to the commercial panic produced by the false news propagated by the enemies of peace, it has now improved considerably.

Powder Seized.

Hamburg, April 29.—Fifty cases of gunpowder, shipped for Venezuela, were seized here to-day at the instance of the Venezuelan consul, and taken to the government magazine.

A MYSTERIOUS ASSAULT

A Pretty Girl Found on the Streets

Unconscious from the Effects of a Blow on the Head by a Switch Wrench.

Red Bank, N. J., April 29.—Miss Lizzie Farrell, a servant girl, was found last night lying on the sidewalk on Bridge avenue, West Red Bank, in an unconscious condition, with the back part of her head crushed in.

Beside her was found an iron switch wrench, about two feet long, covered with blood.

Last night the young woman was out with a female companion, and left her not far from where she was found about 9 o'clock. Miss Farrell is a blonde, about 30 years old and of good looks. This morning she was sent to the Long Branch hospital in a dying condition.

There are no signs of a criminal assault, and the police have no idea why the crime was committed. Three arrests have been made on suspicion.

MAKING PROGRESS.

Socialists to Cut a Big Figure in French Elections.

Paris, April 29.—M. Paul Lafargue, the workingmen's deputy for Lille, said a few days ago that since his election in November last he had visited 49 workingmen's centers in France, and felt convinced that if the socialists did not carry the day at the forthcoming municipal elections they would at all events cut a big figure in the results.

It was not their intention, he explained, to resort to violence, and on May Day they would only make manifestations of a peaceful character.

RAIDING HORSE THIEVES.

Two More Men Killed and More Animals Recovered.

Cheyenne, Wyo., April 29.—Information was received here yesterday of the killing last week of two desperate horse thieves, Got Spencer and Jack Burnett, at Jackson hole, in the extreme northwestern part of the state.

The men were killed by five deputy sheriffs, and 50 horses stolen from the Big Horn country in Wyoming and Montana were found at their rendezvous. J. H. Holland, of Uintah county, led the expedition, and he was aided by two deputies from Montana and two from Wyoming.

Four other horse thieves are under arrest in the same county, the result of a crusade inaugurated six months ago.

AROUND THE GREAT LAKES

Toledo is Leading on the Corn Rate.

Better Prices Here Than from Chicago.

Customs Officials Having a Hard Time to Have the Law Complied With — General and Local Mention.

Chicago, April 29.—(Special Marine Service.)—With both iron ore and Lake Superior grain freights depending upon figures paid for carrying grain from Chicago yesterday, it was fortunate that the fleet seeking grain cargoes here was a small one. Otherwise it might have been that a drop instead of an advance would have been recorded.

Grain as yet does not show much disposition to find its way out of Chicago elevators to eastern consumers, and the movement is remarkably small for the amount in store here. Vesselmen took advantage of the temporary scarcity of boats, however, and succeeded in getting 2 1-4c for wheat and 2c for corn to Buffalo, and 2c for corn to Georgian Bay.

Just at present corn is being carried from Toledo to Kingston for 4c and from Chicago to Kingston, twice the distance, for 3 3-4c.

A storm is raging among vessel owners against the Chicago and Buffalo elevator proprietors. It has been found that the grain cargoes of the winter fleet fell short of the bills of lading to the aggregate of $20,000 on arrival at Buffalo, and this sum was taken from the freight money of the different vessels, for the owners had to pay for all the shortage.

The Chicago elevators claim their scales are correct, and the Buffalo elevators claim to be above suspicion, and when a boat falls short the owner must pay for the missing grain. Chicago shippers are interesting themselves in behalf of the vessel owners, and promise to have this great wrong righted.

The customs officials have lost all patience in regard to the violations of the law providing that all craft must have the name on each bow as well as on the stern—on the solid hull, and not on any board or sheet of tin or iron. The owners of all vessels, steamers and tugs which have not complied with the law by May 1, or by Monday next, will be fined to the full extent of the law.

Late Wednesday night Jackson street bridge was violently closed on the steamer Brittanic, badly crushing her upperworks on the starboard side. There had been a jam, and six steamers had been allowed to pass north, but when the Brittanic, bound south, was moving through, the bridgetender swung the structure against her. She completed loading her grain cargo yesterday afternoon, but will be delayed in port until repairs are made. The city will be asked to pay the damage.

Police guarded the schooner Wm. B. Ogden while she discharged her cargo of lumber in the South Branch yesterday. She has a non-union crew, and the captain was afraid the union committees would drive the men off. When vessels get police protection like this they pay $5 per day and $5 per night for each star. The Ogden, in tow of the steamer Allegheny, expected to get away last night.

The Seamen's union, the Lumber Unloaders' union and various other labor organizations will take part in the May-day parade. The seamen always make an excellent showing.

The Milwaukee Seamen's union proposes to establish a marine council, consisting of committees from the Lumber Unloaders' union and the Seamen's union.

Vessel Owners.

Detroit, April 29.—The following gentlemen were elected a board of managers of the Vessel Owners' association:

Ogdensburg, F. W. Baldwin; Marine City, T. R. Morley; Port Huron, Alvin Neal; Bay City, Charles A. Eddy, James Davidson; Duluth, Alexander McDougall; Alpena, F. W. Gilchrist; Vermilion, J. C. Gilchrist; Sandusky, A. E. Chapman; Erie, F. J. Firth; Chicago, J. L. Higgie, Jesse Spalding, J. S. Dunham, J. G. Keith, Joseph Austrian; Milwaukee, David Vance, R. F. Fitzgerald; Detroit, Wm. Livingston, jr., James W. Miller, David Carter, E. M. Peck, H. S. Hodge, D. C. Whitney; Buffalo, S. D. Caldwell, E. T. Evans, Washington Bullard, W. F. Henry, John Gordon, P. P. Miller, H. Brown, James Ash; Cleveland, Thomas Wilson, M. A. Bradley, James Corrigan, George P. McKay, H. M. Hanna, H. G. Dalton, H. H. Brown, John T. Moore, B. S. Pennington, H. A. Hawgood; Toledo, W. C. Richardson, W. L. Brainard, L. S. Sullivan, A. W. Colton. The managers met immediately after adjournment and elected the following officers: President, M. A. Bradley; vice-presidents, Millen, Firth, Wilson, Miller, Brainard, Keith, Fitzgerald, McDougall; secretary, C. H. Keep; treasurer, George P. McKay; H. D. Goulder, counsel. The finance committee will meet at Cleveland next Saturday to arrange for the immediate establishment of lights on the rivers.

LOCAL MARINE NEWS.

The Pastime is having a new electric lighting apparatus put in throughout.

The Siberia, Home, Rich, Winslow, and Hill went out with coal this morning.

The steamer Juno come in from Kingston light after coal this morning.

The Evening Star is being repainted and will go on the Presque Isle route this season.

The tug Roy took out the steamer Egyptian this morning.

The new ore docks on the East Side will about double the capacity at this port.

It is understood that Pat Mitchell will supercede John O'Connor as manager of the vessel owners organization.

The Arundel will run on the route between Toledo and Detroit and will be replaced about June 20, by the Idlewild.

HOPE FADING AWAY

Jack the Ripper Almost Sure of Conviction

For One of His Many Bloody Crimes.

Miss Rounsevell Takes the Witness Stand

And Tells of Her Courtship With Him.

He Was Then Traveling Under the Name of Baron Swanston and Made Love at Sight and With Great Ease.

Melbourne, April 29.—The central criminal court room was thronged this morning long before the hour of opening, there being general curiosity to see not only Deeming himself, but also Miss Rounsevell, the young woman to whom he was engaged to be married, and who, it was expected, would testify to-day.

Deeming did not show much change from yesterday.

Remarks that he has made indicate that he considers his case hopeless, especially since he was abandoned by his solicitor, Mr. Marshall Lyle, Crown Prosecutor Walsh is winning general approval by the thoroughness of the case which he has presented against the prisoner.

When the name of Miss Rounsevell was called there was considerable excitement in court. She walked to the witness box unfalteringly, and having been sworn, looked steadfastly at the prisoner, who returned her gaze.

Miss Rounsevell in reply to questions addressed to her stated that she was traveling from Adelaide to Sydney on board the steamer Adelaide, which called in at Melbourne on January 12.

After the vessel left Melbourne she was sitting in the saloon when a gentleman, who was passing, stopped and asked her her whether she was sick. She replied in the negative. The same gentleman afterwards asked her to join a game of whist, introducing himself as Baron Swanston. She consented, and in this manner an acquaintance was formed.

"He is sitting there," the witness added, pointing to the prisoner.

Witness continued: "At that time he wore no mustache. Next day he asked me if I intended staying at Sydney. I said no, I was going to join my sister at Bathurst. He then said that he was going that way and would branch off and stop at Bathurst too. While we were in Sydney, Swanston gave me a ring. On the afternoon of the same day he asked me to marry him. I replied that I did not intend to marry.

"During the journey to Bathurst 'Swanston' remarked that I looked fatigued and produced a small silver flask containing brandy, which he recommended me to sip, but I declined to taste it. When we arrived at Bathurst my sister met me at the station, and I introduced the prisoner. He renewed his offer of marriage, and I accepted him. 'Swanston' left Bathurst on January 17. I received letters from him from Sydney and Melbourne, also several telegrams."

The letters from Deeming to Miss Rounsevell were put in evidence. In one letter Deeming urged Miss Rounsevell to lose no time in joining him, and stated that he had obtained employment as engineer of Frazier's gold mine at Southern Cross.

The evidence of a Mr. Vivian, salesman for Messrs. Kilpatrick, jewelers, Melbourne, showed the prisoner to be a sneak thief as well as a murderer. Vivian testified that the prisoner made various purchases at the shop, and about the time Deeming, who then called himself "Dawson," was there, two rings were missing. These were the rings which the prisoner afterward presented to Miss Rounsevell. The trial was adjourned until to-morrow.

The Duke de Morny His Antagonist.

A Wealthy Nobleman Who Objected to Being Compromised by the Drayton-Borrowe Affair.

London, April 29.—It transpires that the unknown Frenchman with whom Harry Vane Millbank fought a duel near Ostend on Wednesday afternoon is the Duke de Morny, who has been angry with Millbank ever since he made use of his decision as one of the jury of honor in the Borrowe-Drayton row.

The duke and Millbank met in the restaurant of the Grand hotel at Brussels. High words passed between them, and as it was apparent from the first that the duke was in fighting humor, Milbank was ready to accommodate him. The usual compliments were exchanged, and with pistols as the weapons the duke and Millbank met at the appointed place about two miles from Ostend.

Morny is said to have behaved with remarkable coolness, while Milbank was as deliberate as ever in the role which had grown frmiliar to him.

The Duc de Morny has a bad social reputation and comes of bad stock. He was born in 1859 and is the son of the late Duc Charles de Morny, one of the favored associates and natural brother of the late Emperor Napoleon III.

It was a duel in earnest on both sides, although it is believed that Milbank did not mean to kill, but to hit just where he intended.

orny, it is said, aimed for Milbank's head, evidently with the purpose of givinghi m a deadly shot, but missed by hardly more than a hair's breadth, whereas, if he had aimed at the body, he would probably have at least wounded his antagonist.

When he received the wound in the thigh he wanted to have another shot, but as the wound was bleeding freely and appeared from its location to be dangerous, the seconds would not permit it.

Duke Charles was the illegitimate son of the dissolute Hortense, queen of Holland, and the Count do Flahet. As Napoleon himself was suspected of being also illegitimate, he had a fellow-feeling for the elder De Morny and made him a duke in 1862.

The de Morny's are wealthy, having amassed a fortune during the empire and besides the present duke received an enormous dot with his wife, Carlotta, the daughter of Guzman Blanco, the ex-president and ex-dictator of Venezuela.

TWO HISTORIC WARSHIPS

They Now Are Far from Fighting Trim,

And are Lying in Dock Badly Battered.

The Montauk and the St. Louis and What Made Them Famous—Pluck of an American Commander.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29.—There are laying at the League islands navy yard in this city two battered old war vessels to which a more than ordinary interest attaches. Few of the visitors to the island, or others not conversant with naval matters, are aware that the Montauk, the stanch old sea craft now undergoing repairs, and which for so many years lay unnoticed and neglected at the foot of Broad street pier, is the younger sister of the original Monitor, that first wonder of Ericsson, which drove the Virginia, more familiarly known as the Merrimac, out of the waters of Hampton Roads in the spring of 1862, after the latter had sunk the Cumberland, blown up the Congress, and only spared the Minnesota a similar fate because the latter, fast aground on the shoals, could not be reached by the rebel guns or touched by the iron monster's terrible ram.

The Montauk was the second production in the line of monitors emanating from the brain of the great Swedish engineer. She was built by Ericsson himself at Brooklyn, and her keel had been laid and work was proceeding upon her during that famous engagement, the first in which ironclads ever took part, and which brought a complete revolution in naval warfare.

Her Sister Monitors.

The Montauk is a monitor of the smallest class, as are her sisters the Nahant and the Jason, which have been stationed at League island since the close of the war. The Jason, by the way, was also built by John Ericsson. These three monitors are each 200 feet long at the water line, with 46 feet beam. Their draught is 11 feet 6 inches, and their displacement 1,875 tons. They are single turreted, and each carries two guns.

The improvement that has been made in this class of warship is at once manifest by comparison of these figures with those of the modern monitors, the Amphitrite, the Miantomonoh, the Monadnock, and the Terror, with their length of 259 1-2 feet and corresponding beam, their displacement of 3,815 tons, their double turrets carrying four ten-inch rifles, tell the tale of how the science of man-killing has advanced. And the monster of them all, the Puritan, 289 feet 8 inches in length, 60 feet beam, with a displacement of 6,060 tons, with her four twelve-inch rifles, demonstrates the extent to which Ericsson's early triumphs have been carried.

A Historic Craft.

One of the most interesting sights to the visitor at League island is a big wooden ship lying on the Delaware front. With the three monitors it constitutes the "fleet" at the island. It has not a very warlike aspect, yet it is the famous old sloop-of-war St. Louis, fondly known as the "Kostza Ship." There are many in the present generation who remember the fame and glory gained nearly half a century ago by the St. Louis. The American pulse is thrilled by the memory of the event, when, after the Hungarian revolt against Austrain rule, with Kossuth at its head, had been put down and Kossuth was a fugitive in Smyrna, the St. Louis, then stationed there, trained her broadsides against a whole fleet of Austrian warships to enforce the demand for the return of the captured Hungarian exile who had become an American citizen.

In July, 1852, Matrin Kostza, one of the Hungarian patriots who had been forced to seek refuge in America, formally declared his intention of seeking American citizenship. The next year he made a business trip to Smyrna, and while there a plot was formed by Austrian naval officers, inspired by their government, to secure his capture. He was seized in the streets of Smyrna by a band of Greek mercenaries and carried aboard an Austrian warship, the Hussar, then lying in the harbor and commanded by Archduke John, a brother of the emperor.

American Pluck.

Next day the American sloop-of-war St. Louis, commanded by Capt. Ingraham, sailed into the harbor. As soon as he heard of the event Capt. Ingraham sent on board the Hussar a message, courteously requesting permission to see Kostza. To this request assent was granted, and Capt. Ingraham, after a conversation with the prisoner, assured Kostza that he was entitled to the protection of America and promptly demanded his release. The Austrian commander refused, whereupon Capt. Ingraham communicated the facts to the nearest United States diplomatic agent, who was Consul Brown, stationed at Constantinople. Meanwhile six Austrian warships had come into the harbor and anchored beside the Hussar. While the American commander was awaiting a reply from the American consul he noticed the Hussar, with Kostza on board, getting ready to leave, and shortly afterward the Austrian war ship was under way.

It did not take a man of Ingraham's calibre long to make up his mind about a matter that involved the edignity of the American flag. He put the St. Louis in the Hussar's track and cleared his decks for action. The Hussar hove to and in reply to Ingraham's questions as to the meaning of this conduct was told that the Austrian consul had ordered the Hussar to sail for home with the prisoner Kostza.

Kostza is Surrendered.

Ingraham protested, but when the Austrian commander glanced around and saw the fleet of ships supporting him he said the Hussar would do just as she pleased.

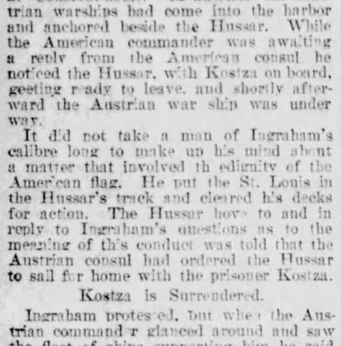
"Clear the guns for action," was Capt. Ingraham's prompt order.

The sight of the guns of the St. Louis turned upon him caused the archduke to hesitate. Temporizing was attempted, but the American was resolute, and the result was the surrender of Kostza and subsequently an apology from the Austrian government.

The old St. Louis, now at Broad street pier of League island navy yard, does not bear much resemblance to the sloop-of-war which achieved this feat, but the stars and stripes floating bravely at her masthead is a reminder of what a plucky American can do even in the face of trying circumstances and formidable odds. Capt. Ingraham was highly complimented by congress and awarded a medal in recognition of his heroic action.

USING KITES.

It is a novel use to which to devote kites to make messengers of them, but it seems as practical as many other schemes in a romantics. If they can be constructed strong enough to carry bundles of some weight and yet compact enough to be wafted by the winds, they will find a field waiting them. Keepers of lighthouses just off shore and shipmasters would be only too glad of some such means of communicating with the land.



Friendly Advice.

Mamma, I advise you to take a dose of Carlsbad Sprudel Salt before you retire, and another one in the morning, if you want to have a clear head for the day. It will do you good, I assure you. But no imitation. You would not drink imitation wines, would you? Buy the genuine every time.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS.

Buzzing, Cracking, Roaring and Pressing in the Ears.

On February 16, 1892, The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing company received the following letter from R. Walter Brady, Cascade, Ark.:

"I take pleasure in recommending your medicines. The benefit I have derived from the use of your medicines could not be bought for any amount of money. When I was about five years old I had a long spell of typhoid fever and pneumonia. After I got well I took the running at the ears, and for 14 years I was almost an invalid. It was so continual and so offensive that I excluded myself from all society. I could do nothing, was unfit for manual labor, and I had almost come to the conclusion that it would be better if I were dead. My father consulted several doctors. They said I had an abcess in my head. I tried several kinds of medicines, but they were of no avail; so I gave it up and thought that it might be that I would outgrow it. After I had borne it for 14 years I received a pamphlet from Dr. S. B. Hartman, entitled 'The Ills of Life.' I had given up all hope of ever being cured, but would have tried anything. I wrote to Dr. Hartman to know what he would charge for taking my case on insurance. He wrote me that the remedy was simple and that I could cure myself. After using $17 worth of your remedies I found I was entirely cured. I am now as active, stout and hearty as any young man could wish to be. The world could not buy my fortune. I recommend it to all as the best medicine sold."

In recent cases, not of more than two years' duration, Pe-ru-na, taken as directed on the bottle, will effect a cure in a few weeks or months. The cure is hastened by gradually increasing the dose recommended on the bottle to a double dose. But cases like the above, where the discharge from the ear is of long standing and especially if it be of a fetid odor, La-cu-pi-a should be taken according to the directions on the label until the system is thoroughly cleansed, after which the Pe-ru-na will complete the cure. There need be no failures to obtain a cure in a single case. A cure is within reach of all.

A valuable pamphlet of 32 pages, setting forth in detail the treatment of catarrh, coughs, colds, sore throat, bronchitis and consumption, in every phase of the disease, will be sent free to any address by The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Co., of Columbus, Ohio. This book should be in every household, as it contains a great deal of reliable information as to the cure and prevention of all catarrhal and kindred diseases.

THE WIFE OF 2,000 YEARS AGO.

She Was a Model of Duty According to an Ancient Chinese Work.

"Wives, obey your husbands" would seem to be an even stronger point in Confucian than in Pauline doctrine, from the sample translations by Miss A. C. Stafford of an ancient Chinese work, in 313 chapters, instructing women as to the behavior expected of them. The work is about 2,000 years old. The first duty of a Chinese woman, so the book says, was to "reverence her husband as heaven." She must not hesitate to die for him, and one of the little anecdotes related to encourage obedience is that of a peasant, who during a severe famine, was seized by some soldiers, who proposed to make a meal of him. "My husband is very lean," pleaded the wife, "he will be scarcely a mouthful. I am fleshy and of dark complexion, and excellent eating." Her argument prevailed, and the soldiers ate her and spared her husband. As to how she should comport herself the book says: "In the presence of her parents or parents-in-law a woman may not sneeze or cough, neither stretch, yawn, nor loll about when tired, nor may she presume to stare at them. She should wear a happy face and mild, pleasant deportment in serving them, in order to soothe them." The wife of a certain Liu Kung-tseh comes in for a large share of praise simply because "for three years after her marriage nobody had ever seen her smile."

Yet it is not probable this ancient work chronicles any such stories of devotion and sacrifice by women for their husbands and other loved ones as could be told of this era of grace, where nothing compels but woman's own sweet heart.

IN THE ALLEY.

Inquisitive Old Party—What did you call your playmate, my boy?

Pete (from de Sixt)—I said 'e wuz a guy.

"What is a guy?"

"A guy's a bloke what don't know his bizn's."

"What is his business?"

"I never see 'im do nothin' but shoot snipes."

"And where does he shoot snipe?"

"Oh, 'round de hotels an'teayturs, an' serloons."

"But there are no birds around such places."

"Hully gee! Snipes ain't burrds."

"Not b'rds! What are they?"

"Say, Chanty Claws, I guess you ain't in it."

"In what, my boy?"

"Hi, yuze fellers, come over here, dis is de worst case er mossback I ever seen, an' I'se saw some o' de worst. 'E don't know enuff ter ache wen 'es in pain."—Detroit Tribune.

The number of men who can write legibly with the left hand is very small in this country, where the faculty of being ambidexterous is not appreciated at its full worth. Sir Ewdin Arnold remarked while in St. Louis that in Japan every child is taught to write with either and both hands, and he hinted that this was not the only evidence of sound common sense he met with while in the kingdom of the Mikado. I learned to write with my left hand some years ago, in consequence of the impression created in my mind by reading the arguments of Charles Reade on the subject and now I change my pen from hand to hand on the first impression of weariness. There have been many remedies suggested for what is known as writer's cramp, and many writers alternate between the pen and the typewriter, but the simplest plan of all is to asquire the art of writing with either hand, and change from one to the other on the first suspicion of fatigue. It is quite easy for a child to learn to write with the left hand, and, although after the muscles have got set with age it is more difficult, almost any man can learn to write with his left hand in a week, and to write about as well with one hand as the other in less than a year.

"HOW PADEREWSKI PLAYS."

I.

If words were perfume, color, wild desire;
If poet's song were fire,
That burned to blood in purple-pulsing veins;
If with a bird-like thrill the moments
throbbed to hours;
If summer's rain
Turned drop by drop to shy, sweet, maiden flowers;
If God made flowers with light and music
in them,
And saddened hearts could win them;
If loosened petals touched the ground
With a caressing sound;
If love's eyes uttered word
No listening lover e'er before had heard;
If flame passed into song and cried, "Rejoice!
Rejoice!"
If words could picture life's hope's heaven's eclipse
When the last kiss has fallen on dying eyes and lips;
If all of mortal woe
Struck on one heart with breathless blow on blow;
If melody were tears, and tears were starry
gleams
That shone in evening's amethystine dreams:
Ah, yes, if notes were stars, each star a different hue,
Trembling to earth in dew,
Or if the boreal pulsings, rose and white,
Made a majestic music in the night;
If all the orbs lost in the light of day
In the deep, silent blue began their harps to play;
And when in frightening skies the lightnings
flashed
And storm-clouds crashed,
If every stroke of light and sound were but excess of beauty;

——— If human syllables could e'er
refashion
That fierce electric passion;
If other art could match (as were the poet's duty)
The grieving, and the rapture, and the thunder
Of that keen hour of wonder,—
That light as if heaven, that blackness as of hell,—
How Paderewski plays then might I dare to tell.

II.

How Paderewski plays! And was it he
Or some disbodied spirit that had rushed
From silence into singing; that had crushed
Into one startled hour a life's felicity,
And highest bliss of knowledge—that all life,
grief, wrong,
Turns at the last to beauty and to song!

LOST A PRETTY GAME

The Cowboys Captured Another Toledo Ball.

Interesting Notes of the Diamond Gathered for the Benefit of the General Public.

Although Toledo played good ball against the Cowboys yesterday they lost. The fielding was sharp and Toledo put up an errorless contest and broke even on the hits. On the whole it was good ball with bad results, but such is the rule of the diamond. The score:

Hardie Richardson, the well-known outfielder, has been released by the Washington team. The only reason given for this action is that the club wishes to reduce expenses.

James Carroll and Parson Davies, managers respectively for Fitzsimmons and Hall, met at the Metropolitan hotel last night in New York and decided to hold to the agreement made when the match between their principals was consummated that the fight shall occur in November or December. The managers of the Olympic club were notified of the agreement reached by mail. Their answer will decide whether the fight will take place in New Orleans or not.

Sporting Notes.

Toledo is now in sixth place.

Somebody please head Milwaukee off.

Columbus won a game from Omaha yesterday.

Columbus is not proving to be a terror with the stick.

Toledo is on the road to-day bound for the twin cities.

Gettinger was hurt yesterday and Darling took his place in the field.

The Emmets accept the challenge of the Pathfinders for Sunday, May 15, on the Wabash grounds.

Parson Nicholson carried off the honors yesterday, in fact he seems to be doing the most of the playing in all the games, and some Toledoans are just beginning to realize what a great team of ball players President Ketcham had.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any ageney known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED,

As a general family remedy for dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

CLIPPINGS.

Baron Felder, formerly burgomaster of Vienna, has sold his great collection of butterflies to Lord Rothschild for 5,000 pounds sterling. The collection is said to be destined for the British Museum. Baron Felder, who is 78 years old, has parted with it for fear that otherwise after his death it would be broken up.

Specimens of the smallest known species of hogs are now quartered at the London Zoological Gardens. They came from the southern part of Australia, and are known as "the pigmy hogs of the Antipodes." They are well formed, frisky and good-natured, and are about the size of a muskrat. They are real hogs, and are not to be confounded with guinea pigs, which are a species of rodent.

In an article upon the recent Roumanian election, a Paris paper says: One of the candidates, M. Protopopesco, formerly mayor of Bucharest, hit upon an ingenious way of increasing his chances at the poll. Some time before the election he purchased a large stock of top-boots and distributed a right boot to each of his doubtful supporters, the left being promised providing he was returned.

The largest stationary engine in the United States, and among the largest in the world, is at Friedensville, Pa. It is called the "President." Its driving-wheel is 35 feet in diameter and weighs 40 tons; Its sweep-rod is 40 feet long; its cylinder is 110 inches in diameter and of a 10-foot stroke, and it raises 17,500 gallons of water in a minute.

A collector of antique curiosities traveled from Colorado to Portland, Me., for the purpose of securing a stone mortar and a pestle of Indian origin that were dug up from a clam-shell heap at Scarboro last year. The pestle is two feet in length and three inches in diameter, and the mortar is about the size of a water-pail. The relic-hunter paid $50 for the articles, and made a liberal offer for a peculiar stone, with a tuft of human hair attached, that was pulled up on an anchor-fluke on the Grand Banks last year, but the possessor intends to send it to the Smithsonian Institute.

WRAPPED IN A POISONOUS VEIL!

In the mists that we see rising from the shores of sluggish streams, from low lands soaked by freshets or from marshy muddy flats on the outskirts of populous cities, lurk disease and death. Inmeshed in this poisonous veil of mist are isolated business structures, manufacturing villages and humble tenements. For those who either from motives of business interest or dire necessity are daily constrained to breathe this envenomed atmosphere, there is no immunity save in an efficient medicinal safeguard. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters fully fills the need, protecting whole communities from the insidious attacks of malaria, a disease which in its more malignant forms is scarcely less to be dreaded in the individual than typhus. Every type of it is thoroughly eradicated by the Bitters. This peerless medicine also remedies dyspepsia, constipation, liver and kidney trouble, rheumatism and nervousness. 'Tis a restorative, too, of appetite, sleep and flesh.

Bright's Disease of the Kidneys and IMPURE BLOOD arise from Dyspepsia or Impaired Digestion. Restore that important function with that good old German Medicine— Hoofland's German Bitters.

DO YOU WANT GOLD?

Cripple Creek is not a health resort. It is a wealth resort. Quite a difference! Location, near Pike's Peak, in Colorado. Gold—bright, yellow gold, is found at grass roots and in the rock formation.

Reliable experts claim this is to-day the richest camp in Colorado. Assays average $100 per ton, and have run as high as $5,000. One hundred people a day are now rushing to Fremont, chief town of the district.

The chance of a life-time is worth looking after!

You can get there quickly and comfortably by taking Santa Fe Route. Only line with no change of cars from Chicago, Kansas City and other principal cities to Florissant, nearest railroad station, with daily stages to Fremont.

Under the direction of the Legislature of Ohio, the State Food and Dairy Commissioner Gen. S. H. HURST, examined the leading brands of baking powder (30 in all) and the following is Gen. HURST'S verdict:

"Cleveland's Superior is absolutely the best baking powder manufactured."

S. H. Hurst

Late Ohio Food Commis'ner.

On April 29th, 1745, Cowper Thornhill accomplished a notable feat of horsemanship.

He wagered $2500 that he could ride 213 miles in fifteen hours. He won the bet, to quote the language of racing men, "hands down." When he dismounted at the end of his journey, after having tested the endurence of many horses, he had more than two and a half hours to spare.

In the table stock there's a line of White Maple and Solid Mahogany, gilt trimmed goods, that you ought to see.

Broke Down.

Amhersburg, April 29.—(Special Marine Service)—The steering gear of the steamer Harper gave out on Lime Kilns crossing this morning. She was towed here for repairs.

Went Down with the Current.

Buffalo, April 29.—The barge Troy was being towed here from Tonawanda when the tug broke down in Niagara river. The Troy was caught by the current and hurled with great force on piers, where she still lies.

The Plymouth in Trouble.

Ashland, April 29.—Steamer Arizona lost her consort, Plymouth, in the big gale. Arizona reached here last night and is now hunting for the Plymouth.

Disasters on the Lake.

Sault Ste. Marie, April 29.—The schooner Annie Sherwold, bound for Chicago with lumber from Washburne, is now lying off Eagle river, a bad wreck from yesterday's gale. She is nearly completely dismasted, and her deck load of lumber is gone.

The steamers White and Friant had the Sherwold in tow. The schooner Fannie Neil also lost part of her deck load.

No further information has been received here of the missing schooner Glenora, and it is considered certain that both boat and crew of ten men have been lost.

When making for shelter into Peninsula harbor on the north shore of Lake Superior, the Canadian steamer Glengarry, from Kingston to Port Arthur, towing the schooners Gaskin and Glenora, lost the Glenora.

There was a heavy southwest gale blowing at the time.

She is owned by Capt. Spinner, of Kingston, and is valued at $12,000. It is believed she has been driven on Slate islands and pounded to pieces. The Glengarry got her tow line in her wheel and is aground near the Peninsula, resting on sandy bottom. The Gaskin is safe with her. The Glenora carries 10 men.

Chicago Rates.

Chicago, April 29.—Shippers wanted boats this morning to take forward considerable grain, but supply was limited. Rates held firm at 2 1-4c wheat, 2c corn to Buffalo, and at noon some vesselmen were trying to force advance to 2 1-2c whea

Duluth Rates.

Duluth, April 29.—Wheat rates to Buffalo are firm at 3c to-day.

Cleveland Rates.

Cleveland, April 29.—Cleveland brokers had telegrams from Duluth to-day saying that if vessels could be offered, 3 1-2c would probably be secured on grain to Buffalo. Ore shippers still refuse to advance rates, however, and several boats are kept waiting on market for 70c Escanaba and $1 10 Ashland. Advance must come unless grain slumps off. Coal freights are unchanged.

Better Prospects.

Chicago, April 29.—Grain freights closed firm, 2 1-4c wheat; 2c corn to Buffalo. Better figures were paid on small lots. The out look is very encouraging.

THE KEYSTONE BANK.

Investigation Into Its Business Methods.

An Unauthorized Debt of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars Found on the Books.

Washington, April 29.—The investigation of the failure of the Keystone national bank of Philadelphia was concluded by the house committee on banking and currency to-ay.

When the committee met Mr. Walker made a motion which was agreed to, providing that six members of the committee should constitute a quorum to conduct the investigation.

The correspondence between the treasury department and Bank Examiner Drew and the officials of the Keystone bank was taken up and Comptroller Lacey took the stand.

Mr. Lacey read a letter from Mr. Drew, dated July, 1890, in which he stated that the instructions of the comptroller concerning the failure of the Keystone bank appeared to have the desired effect, and he hoped to report the affairs of the bank as all right.

This letter was followed by others up to November 30, none of which showed that there was any danger of failure on the part of the bank.

On November 30 a letter was received from Mr. Drew stating that owing to rumors affecting the standing of the Keystone bank he had made a statement for publication denying them, as upon examination the bank showed up all right. Several days after this, about December 1 and 2, telegrams were received from Drew stating that, owing to financial disturbances, a run had been made on the bank, but that it had closed and the bank had come out victorious.

On December 9 a letter was received from Drew stating that since the run was over the condition of the bank had improved. Further communications regarding the condition of the bank were read, one of which, from Mr. Drew to Mr. Lacey, dated January 24, stated that when he went to make his examination on the 9th inst. the president of the bank, Mr. Marsh, called his attention to the discovery of a debt of $600,000 caused by irregular transactions by President Lucas.

In these transactions he says that the president was assisted, seemingly unknowingly, by Cashier Marsh, now president of the bank. The money, he said, had been used in real estate and other speculations, and it was hoped to recover some of the debt through the real estate.

TRAINING THE EYE.

What a Young Woman Does in a Newspaper Clipping Bureau.

The capacity of the human eye for special training is even greater than that of the hand. A young woman employed in one of the clipping bureaus of this city can see certain names and subjects at a glance at the page of a newspaper. They are the names and subjects she is paid to look up through hundreds of newspapers every day. What the ordinary reader would have to read column after column to find and then might miss—she sees at what seems the merest casual glance at the sheet as soon as it is spread out before her.

"They stand right out," said she, laughingly, "just as if they were printed in bold black type and all the rest was small print. I couldn't help seeing them if I wanted to. When I begin to look up a new matter and drop an old one it bothers me a little—the latter by being in my mental way all the time and the former to be hunted—but in a few days one disappears and the other appears in some mysterious way. I can't tell how. I used to think bank cashiers and tellers were a remarkable set of people, but I now find that the eye is much quicker than the hand and is susceptible of a higher training."—New York Herald.

City Auditor's Office

Toledo, O., March 30th 1892.

The committee on ways and means of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to

MONDAY, MAY 2ND, 1892,

at 7 o'clock p. m., for the purchase of Sewer Improvement Bonds to the amount of Thirteen Thousand Five Hundred ($13,500) Dollars, bearing date March 21, 1892, and payable as follows: Thirteen Hundred and Fifty Dollars on March 21, 1893, and Thirteen Hundred and Fifty Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including Sept. 21, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer, with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to Section 2380 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, as amended April 16, 1880, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the construction of Sewer No. 351, situate in the right of way running from Dorr street to Detroit avenue, from the sewer in Junction avenue to Monroe street."—Passed March 14th, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be each payment two bonds of $675.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the award made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his call except that of the successful bidder, which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the city of Toledo, Ohio," and be indorsed "Proposals for improvement bonds."

Toledo, O., March 30th, 1892.

The committee on ways and means of the Common Council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to

MONDAY, MAY 2ND, 1892,

at 7 o'clock p. m., for the purchase of Sewer Improvement Bonds to the amount of Seven Thousand One Hundred ($7,100) Dollars, bearing date Feb. 1st, 1892, and payable as follows: Seven Hundred and Ten Dollars on Feb. 1st, 1893, and Seven Hundred and Ten Dollars at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including August 1, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said improvement bonds are issued pursuant to Section 2380 of the revised statutes of the state of Ohio, as amended April 16, 1880, and also under an ordinance of the common council of the city of Toledo, Ohio, "To provide for the issue of improvement bonds to pay the cost and expense of the construction of Sewer No. 355, in Canal Avenue, from the sewer in Hawley street to the alley between Boyd and South street, from Canal Avenue to Stebbins street, and in Stebbins street from the last named alley to the alley lying next north of South street, and along said alley north of South street, from Stebbins street to the east line of Thayer's Addition."—Passed March 14th, 1892.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. Where were Squire and Griffin when the lights went out?

The republicans will hardly make a nomination against Denny Donovan over in the big Fifth district.

If the Cleveland stampede stops to take a fresh breath, keep an eye on Gorman, of "Maryland, my Maryland."

The man who "fell outside the breastworks" (into the Nicaragua canal) wasn't able to get to the New York convention, but he sent a letter.

Now that the conventions are over for a time our own dumpy darling mayor will rule the roost with a double-promising policy. Everything and nothing goes with Vincey.

It is current belief that Mr. Griffin can not now be nominated in the Ninth district, but it is proper to add that Mr. Griffin and current belief do not agree. He still thinks he is still the boss.

Perhaps the new minister to France writes his name T. Jefferson Coolidge, because, being a republican, he hasn't the courage to carry out the intention of his ancestor and be "Thomas Jefferson." We suggest Tom J.

Mr. Foraker made his usual appeal for harmony, in the Cleveland convention, but, as usual, the knife was concealed. If anybody treads on Joseph's toes in Minneapolis, there will be a campaign row in Ohio. Mr. Foraker commands the situation and can dictate terms.

A road exhibit, showing necessary machinery and materials, is a World's fair project ardently avocated by Mr. Albert A. Pope, of Boston, who has written so much upon this necessary reform. The road problem is at last receiving something of that attention it merits, and it may be a national convention, even if not held in connection with the exposition, would be a good thing.

Count Leon Tolstoi is by imperial order a prisoner in his own home. Remembering all his preachment of the gospel of submission, one wonders what he can possibly have said or written to give offense. Remembering all the noble, self-sacrificing work that has been done by himself, his wife, and his children for the famishing peasantry, one could not credit this story of his reward, did it not come from Russia. Surely that government is self-doomed to destruction.

If little comment follows Postmaster General Wanamaker's admissions as to the civil service reform farce and the Baltimore postoffice, it is not because these admissions are overlooked, but because the administration and its henchmen the country over have so persistently and flagrantly violated party and personal pledges and ignored civil service law that people expect nothing else. Even the chief apostle of the administration may therefore make such brutally frank and damaging admissions as Mr. Wanamaker did make before the house committee, and the only comment is "Of course."

A few days ago an over zealous organ summed up sixty tin plate factories in the United States, the outgrowth of the McKinley year. The official report names nineteen, padded out with the statement that this does not include the factories that roll the sheet-iron and steel, into plates for dipping. The steel and iron barons are writing letters, "hoping the law will not be changed." They have been able to enhance profits and reduce wages and the law suits them. This is honest history, and yet there are men brazen enough to preach that a tariff on products benefits the workingman. He competes with contract labor from the old world and pays his share of the protective tariff tax every time he buys a tin pail or a pound of iron.

The idea of paying an old Indian claim (for the Choctaw and Chickasaw reservation lands) just now when the treasury is low and a campaign at hand, is not to be thought of. The president communicates that he wants to look into the matter, as "a fourth of the sum is to go to three attorneys." That the matter has been adjusted three times by courts of law, and deductions made from the original honest debt, cuts no figure in the president's calculations. Eternal shame to the United States government that these long-suffering creditors should be obliged to employ attorneys to enforce collection of an acknowledged and long standing obligation. Suppose the administration should have such a spell about the money the old soldiers pay to attorneys, or the heirs the French spoliation claimants must spend to get their just dues from the government! The disposition to "look into the matter" is not apparent. The business of the country must stand still and the cheated Indians wait (they have been waiting twenty years); the chief executive of this great nation is running state conventions and planning to re-elect himself to office. A sublime spectacle.

The Cleveland convention was one of big politics and much dramatic interest. The Sherman, or administration, forces were in large majority, without leadership, unless Mr. Hahn, of Mansfield, be called a leader; though in the contest for mastery he appeared the pigmy which he really is. Their dislike of the administration was not concealed by the Foraker crowd, yet the Knight of the Unshaken Hand absolutely compelled the administration, with its entire power, to fall down at the feet of the apostle of hate. The appearance of Gen. Gibson as the alleged peace-maker was dramatic enough to stampede an unorganized mob. It was the outburst of previously provided eloquence. It served its purpose. A so-called compromise was effected. McKinley and Hahn, and Foraker and Bushnell are the four delegates-at-large to the Minneapolis convention. It does not require a man just a little familiar with Ohio politics to know that the big end of that four is Foraker and Bushnell. They are fighters in politics. McKinley is passive and Hahn is a dough-head. It was a Foraker victory and must be so understood.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

Superintendent Murphy's Report for the Past Week.

The following is Superintendent Murphy's report for the free employment bureau, week ending April 28:

Situations wanted, males 84, females 29; help wanted, males 100, females 50; situations procured, males 72, females 27. The call for men at the Hocking Valley docks increased the demand for male help. There is still a great demand for domestic help, and good places can be secured for good girls.

THE LAVA BEDS

Prof. Wright's lecture Saturday night will have for subject: "The Lessons of the Lava Beds of the Pacific Coast." The change is made from High School hall to the annex in the Memorial building, where the facilities are better for an illustrated address. It will be one of the most instructive lectures of this most entertaining and educational series. Single or course tickets to be had at Brown, Eager & Hull, and at the door.

ARBOR DAY

Observed at the Various Schools in the Future Great.

Agreeably to the proclamation of Governor McKinley, Arbor Day was duly observed in Toledo to-day, at least by the pupils in the various public schools. Interesting programs of exercises were prepared and rendered, which consisted of singing and recitation, and the planting of a miniature tree. The High school classes voted on a state flower. Lack of space forbids the printing of the many programs which have been sent to the office.

DUMB AS OYSTERS

Are the War Department Officials on Major Overman.

The troubles of Major Overman do not appear to be ended. This morning's Cleveland Leader has the following paragraph of interest: "Major C. L. Overman's answer to the new charges against him has been received at the war department, but it was impossible to learn anything to-day in regard to its nature. The officials are as dumb as oysters in regard to the matter. They will not talk about it. The most vigorous pumping of the interviewer fails to produce any satisfactory result."

MRS. KLINGE'S FUNERAL.

The Last Words Spoken by Revs. Cravens and Jennings.

The residence of Mrs. Rosa L. Segur, 916 Broadway, was filled with sympathizing friends yesterday afternoon, gathered to pay the last tribute of respect to her mother, Mrs. Jeanetta Klinge, whose long and useful earthly life is finished. The profusion of beautiful flowers and floral emblems in which the coffin was embowered gave token of the place which mother and daughter have in the hearts and affections of hosts of friends.

The funeral ceremony was conducted with the dignified simplicity which characterizes the free thought burial ceremony, Revs. Charles Cravens and A. G. Jennings contributing the spoken words, and Mrs. W. W. Ainsworth singing. The burial was in Collingwood cemetery, where other members of this family were laid to sleep in earlier years.

ENTERTAINMENTS.

A Modern Husband Falls Flat—The Pay Train.

A Modern Husband was presented at Wheeler's last evening at the benefit for Mr. E. A. Rowe, of the People's theater. The audience was not large, and it was even smaller before the performance was ended, as a goodly number left the theater in disgust at the attempts of the people on the stage to make them believe they were actors. The play is weak, even as a farce comedy, and it struck a decided "frost," for the applause was very slim.

With one or two exceptions the work of the company was very amateurish, and the performance could hardly be called a success.

The Pay Train.

One of the heaviest mechanical plays on the road, The Pay Train, will be presented at the People's Theater next week. It abounds in startling and realistic effects, and besides being a good comedy drama, many excellent specialties will be presented.

THE FORESTERS.

TALKING OVER MATTERS.

The First Presbyterian Church Congregation on the Moving Question.

Another meeting of the members of the First Presbyterian church was held last night to discuss the question of moving.

It was decided to appoint a committee of six to confer with Westminster congregation relative to the occupancy of the lower town and Seventh ward fields. Both churches, it is believed, recognize the importance of the matter to the denomination, and undoubtedly an amiable settlement will be reached, and one that will meet the approval of the entire membership.

A subscription list is being circulated among the residents in the vicinity of Madison and Twenty-second streets to raise funds to execute a plan by which a new church will soon be erected in that locality.

This plan is to procure funds enough to purchase a site in the vicinity before mentioned, which will be given to the congregation that makes the transfer and builds a church.

One subscription of $1,500 has been obtained, and one or two others of $1,000 each. It is but within reason to predict that a new Presbyterian church will be erected in the Seventh ward before snow flies.

POTATOES FOR THE ORPHANS.

COGHLIN-RUNDELL.

The Wedding and Reception—Very Brilliant Affair.

A social event of much interest occurred yesterday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Coghlin gave their daughter, May, in marriage to Mr. James Rundell. Rev. Father Kramer performed the marriage ceremony at 4 o'clock in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends. The charming bride was prettily attired in a white silk Parisian gown. At 5:30 o'clock an elaborate wedding dinner was served, the following guests being present: The Misses Heyn, Doyle, Brainard and Colton, and Messrs. Ed Ludlow, Fred Rundell, Robert West, Ralph Holbrook, W. A. Rundell and James Coghlin, and Mrs. Elizabeth Turbush. The floral decorations in the dining-room were magnificent and were arranged by Mrs. Suder.

From 8 to 11 o'clock a brilliant reception was given. The spacious home was a veritable floral bower and presented a scene of grandeur. Mr. and Mrs. James Rundell were assisted in receiving their guests by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Coghlin, the Misses Heyn, Doyle, Brainard and Colton, Mrs. Turbush and Mr. W. A. Rundell. Mrs. Coghlin wore a handsome brocaded gown and the young ladies were attired in pink. The entire party stood under a canopy of smilax and roses. Among the guests who called during the evening were: Mrs. Chas. Roland, Mrs. Will Brown, jr., Mr. and Mrs. Drake, Mr. and Mrs. G. Merrell, Mr. and Mrs. Jacoby, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Schenck, Mrs. Southworth, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Colton, Mr. and Mrs. Spitzer, Mrs. Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Currier, Mrs. Judge Doyle, Mrs. Heyn, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bellman, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ashley, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold, Mrs. Lacey, and the Misses Wilson, Blass, Wests, Merrell, Heyn, Bowman, and Messrs. Ed Witker, Ed Ludlow, Charles West, L. Franc, George Wilson and others.

The happy couple were the recipients of numerous beautiful presents from abroad and at home, among which was a huge bouquet of white roses from the Sisters of Charity, who hold Mrs. Rundell in high esteem. The groom's present to the bride was a diamond pendant.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Rundell departed for the east and upon their return they will occupy their new home at the corner of Sixteenth and Jefferson streets. The Bee joins with a host of friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

STRUCK IN THE REAR.

Eadington, Ky., April 29.—The Nashville and Hopkinsville passenger train was struck from the rear by a freight train near Guthrie, Ky., last night. Charles Wallace, a fireman, of that place, was killed, and Engineer Norman Hiltner, of Nashville, sustained a badly mashed leg.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Hull, Mass., April 29.—The Arlington and the Germania, beach hotels, and a large bath house, were burned this morning. Loss on the Arlington, $10,000; insurance, $5,000. Loss on Germania, $4,500; partially insured.

GOLD GOING EAST.

New York, April 29.—Four millions dollars in gold coin was ordered at the sub-treasury this morning for shipment to Europe tomorrow.

CURRENT COMMENT.

It looks very much as if the Ohio republican machine would no longer respond to the touch of the Foraker throttle.—Washington Post.

Every dive-keeper in Chicago who is alive to his "business interests" wants the world's fair closed on Sundays. Likewise the proprietors of all the near-by alleged "summer resorts."—New York World.

A reported outbreak of cholera in India is an incident which no longer affects the interests of the United States. Cholera is a dirt disease which has no terrors for communities furnished with bath-tubs and sewers and which enjoy ordinary prosperity.—New York World.

As a new presidential campaign approaches some of the subsidized organs of tariff spoliation are growing insolent. There is to be more frying of fat, and they are eagerly looking for some of the drippings. This probably may account for the increased recklessness of their assertions in behalf of tariff plunder.—Philadelphia Record.

It is understood that President Harrison has at last begun to open his eyes to the fact that there is something seriously wrong in Commissioner Raum's management of the pension bureau. The president has the distinction in this respect of being the very last of over sixty millions of people.—Providence Journal.

The spectacle of bankrupt Russia, with millions of her subjects starving to death, offering to lend Persia $2,500,000 to indemnify the British tobacco speculators whose monopoly the shah was compelled by a rebellion to cancel, is full of suggestion to American contributors. Russia has millions for politics, not a cent for humanity.—New York Advertiser.

A woman is found stealing silk in a St. Louis dry goods store. She is arrested, but as it is found that she is well to do, that "her condition is such that necessity did not compel her to resort to theft," she is released. This definition of kleptomania as pertaining by those who needn't pilfer unless they like is perhaps as good as any in the dictionaries.—St. Louis Republic.

The tide of immigration is setting in stronger than ever this season. The largest number of immigrants that ever came over in a single ship arrived at Philadelphia the other day. Seven thousand have disembarked at New York within three days, and 1,200 are reported now on their way to Boston from Liverpool in the Pavonia. At this rate of importation the immigration question will not down.—Boston Herald.

The recent cases of crimes committed by women have directed attention in England to a plea for permitting women to serve as jurors. In cases involving the guilt or innocence of one of their own sex the services of female jurors might prove valuable. They would know exactly what justice should be tempered with mercy, and would not be so apt to succumb to the appealing glances of a fascinating culprit as is the average male juror.—Baltimore Sun.

A WOMAN AND HER BABY

In Sad Distress at the Police Station.

Deplorable Sight of a Young Married Woman Deserted by a Heartless Husband.

A peculiarly sad case of destitution and distress has been brought to light at the police station in the person of a young married woman named Susan Waldeck. She has been deserted by her husband, and has with her a five months' old boy and she is also in an interesting condition.

Mrs. Waldeck came to Toledo some months ago from Chicago with her husband, and her child was born here. Some time afterward her husband sent her back to Chicago, saying that he would follow her and obtain work in that city. In Chicago Mrs. Waldeck stayed with her father, who is a poor man and hardly able to support her.

Waldeck did not go to Chicago, however, and his wife did not hear from him until finally, she returned to Toledo to find him. When she arrived here she discovered that he had gone, it is thought, to Cincinnati.

She had no money or friends and when she aplied at the infirmary office for assistance she was sent out to the poor house.

It is said that Waldeck has relatives in the city but they refuse to help the woman.

Mrs. Waldeck was at the infirmary about two months, but Wednesday she came into the city with her infant and at the police station told her sad story. She was very much distressed over her experiences at the infirmary and had a great horror of going back there. She says that she was thrown in constant contact with the depraved, decrepid, idiotic, and diseased people such as fill the infirmary and besides such unpleasant surroundings she was afraid that she or her child might contract some of the loathsome diseases.

She was placed in charge of Matron Stebbins and the chief went to Mrs. Waldeck's father in Chicago, but as yet has had no reply.

Mrs. Waldeck is about 23 years old, intelligent looking and very bright, but in delicate health, and in her condition should receive the best of care, much better than can be given her at the infirmary or the police station. She is but poorly clothed and has almost no clothing for her child.

The infirmary directors want to send her back to the institution and this is all the help they offer her. Here is a chance for some of Toledo's benevolent people, who are able, to do a charitable deed, and any help that can be extended to this poor woman and her infant will not come amiss.

THE REVENUE OFFICIALS

Will Work an Extra Hour Hereafter.

The Treasury Department Issues a New Code of Iron-Clad Rules—No Smoking, No Reading, No Talking.

Collector Waldorf is in receipt of a new code of rules for the conduct of business which has just been issued by the treasury department. The office shall be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., instead of 9 to 3 as heretofore, with half an hour for lunch at noon. The collector can extend these hours.

The collector will be required to keep a daily record of hours of arrival and departure of all officials and make a monthly report of the same to the department.

The reading of newspapers, smoking, visits, loud conversation is strictly prohibited.

There are iron-clad rules relative to access by unofficial persons to official records.

It is a new departure, but the boys are not worried over it to any great extent.

Angier's Petroleum Emulsion WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES is a revelation in medicine. Do not confound it with other Emulsions. It differs from them all, and supersedes Cod Liver Oil or any of its preparations. They are foods. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion is food and medicine. Its success in the treatment of and all other Throat and Lung troubles, is unprecedented. It is entirely acceptable to the most delicate stomach, never nauseates or distresses the patient, and while it contains all the curative properties of the crude oil is almost as tasteless as water.

"After using your Petroleum Emulsion for more than three years in my family, it is a pleasure to say that it is the best preparation I have ever used; it is the medical link that holds my family together." — J. M. TIBBITTS, Attorney, Columbus, Ohio.

LEGAL NOTICE.

August Ruttin and Simon Stern, residing in the city of New York and state of New York, will take notice that on the 29th day of March, 1892, Harvey Scribner filed his petition in the court of common pleas of Lucas county, Ohio, against the above named parties, setting out that the said Harvey Scribner holds the legal right to and is seized in fee simple of an undivided 26-32 part of the following real estate, viz:

That part of lot number five (5) in the subdivision of fractional sections one (1) and twelve (12) in township ten (10), south of range seven (7) east, and of river tracts eighty-six (86) and eighty-seven (87) in the United States Reserve of twelve miles square at the foot of the rapids of the Miami of Lake Erie, according to a map of said tracts made by Henry T. Vaughn in October, 1849, situate in Lucas county, Ohio, lying between Nevada street and a line drawn parallel with and ninety feet north of the north line of Navarre avenue, in the city of Toledo, Lucas county, Ohio, together with all the privileges and appurtenances to the same belonging.

And that said August Ruttin is a tenant in common with said Harvey Scribner in the said premises and has a legal right to and is seized in fee simple of an undivided 6-32 part thereof; and praying that partition may be made in accordance with the said respective interests, or if that cannot be done without manifest injury that such proceedings may be had as are authorized by law.

Said parties are required to answer on or before the 28th day of May, 1892, at which time the said petition for partition will be heard.

WATER-BABIES.

Where mosses green and cool
Creep round the rushy margin of the pool,
Like phantoms in the sun
The water-babies leap and laugh and run;
While from their baby-lips
The kissing wave forever glides and drips,
And every golden beam
Is fain to lave them in its loving gleam.

They startle with their cries
The forest-echo where she dreaming lies;
And timid wood-nymphs creep
From shadowy haunts to see them laugh and leap.
But when the sunlight fades
Along the tree-tops of the murmuring glades—
When earthly children rest
Upon the mother's gently-heaving breast—
These babies steal away
Into the wave, and sleep with sleeping day.
—Arthur L. Salmon, in the Magazine of Art.

Miniature arrow heads cut out of jasper and Carnelian are found to this day by Arabs in the desert sands and strung in necklaces for charms. An amateur violin maker of Portland, Me., has secured a prize in a spruce beam from an old house at North Yarmouth. The beam had been seasoning for more than 100 years, and the little thin boards from it gave forth the clear mellow sound that is desired in violin stock. Russia's fancy is for large yellow diamonds. The "swinging rock" of Mount Tandil, in the Argentine province of Buenos Ayres, is one of the most remarkable features of South America. A gigantic block 22 feet high, 82 feet long and 15 feet broad, with a diameter of more than 4,500 cubic feet, and weighing about 50,000 pounds, seems pivoted to its base by an invisible pin, and has a lateral motion from east to west, produced by the wind, or by the propelling strength of man.

The crack in the old Liberty Bell, which has become as famous as the Liberty Bell itself, seems to have been foreshadowed from the very first. When it reached Philadelphia in August of 1752, the good citizens were eager to hear it ring, but being "hung up to try the sound, it was cracked by a stroke of the clapper without any other violence." Messrs. Pass and Stow had to recast it. It was then rehung, and rang out nobly for four score and two years thereafter, without being cracked again. But on the fatel morning of July 8, 1835, while being tolled in memory of Chief Justice Marshall, who died in Philadelphia on the 6th of that month, the heavy clapper suddenly struck the metal side a fierce blow, and in an instant the trusty old bell was again in the same plight as it was more than 80 years before.

ONE MORE GOOD INDIAN.

In the cool of the morning John Martin kissed his wife and two little ones by-by at the door of their humble home, half frame, half dugout, took his team and went over the roll of the prairie to work at his plowing, about half a mile from the house.

As he paused on the top of the roll before going from sight, he called back to his wife:

"Mary, let Georgie come to me at noon with a lunch and fresh drink of buttermilk; it's so far that I don't think I'll come up for dinner."

The team started, and chatting cheerfully to them for company's saks they went on to their work.

The sun climbed higher, and furrow after furrow was turned. John kept the team going steadily, but Fan was restive and would throw her head up and look around and then throw herself into the collar and forge ahead as though suddenly anxious to get the work finished.

"What does ail you, Fan? you seem daft," said John finally; "does your harness hurt you, old girl?"

And then he went over the harness, carefully examining each strap and piece where it touched her sleek coat.

He went back between the handles of the plow, and Fan threw her nose up over her mate's neck, looking in the direction of the house, whinnied so shrill and mournful that John involuntarily looked in the same direction.

He started.

Were his eyes deceiving him!

Was that a thin column of smoke rising in the clear air from over the roll of the prairies? His heart almost stopped beating.

It is smoke!

Fast as his fingers could move he undid the harness fastenings from the team, threw the harness to the ground, released one horse and sprang upon Fan's back. She needed no urging or directing, but leaned like an arrow from the bow.

As they gained the summit of the rise of ground, John looked, and had to clutch the horse's mane to keep from falling. A thin blue column of smoke was rising from the ground where his home had stood, and as he cast an agonized glance over the plain for some sign of life, he saw away off on the distant horizon a few rapidly diminishing specks and a little cloud of dust.

No use to urge the creature; she seemed to share his fear, and was doing the best that flesh and blood could do.

At the little bed of hot ashes she stopped and he rolled from her back. For a few seconds he could not see, and his limbs trembled so that he could not walk. He knew what sight would meet him.

A few steps from him lay the body of his little boy Georgie, the one that was to bring him his lunch and drink at noon.

He bent over and tenderly kissed the little dead face.

"Two more, he whispered to himself; "two more: where are they?"

They were not far away—the little girl, 3 years old, with long brown hair, and the wife—dead, and the scalping-knife had done its work.

Side by side he laid the three, around whom all his hopes, all his ambition, his love, was centered, now gone from him in a moment, it seemed.

As he turned away to look back again he heard a light whinny come from the cattle yard, and he walked that way. There stood Fan over the body of her colt, whinnying pitifully and nudging it with her nose to induce it to get up.

"Your baby, too, Fan. Poor Fan! poor me!"

He stayed by the dead all day and night; then he laid them gently in the grave he made them, pressing a last kiss upon the unresponsive lips of each. His task finished, he mounted Fan, and, drawing rein beside the mounds for a last look, raised his hand toward heaven and took oath:

"I swear before God, beside the graves of my dead, that so long as I have life I shall hunt Apaches. They have robbed me of all, and my hate shall never be satisfied."

. . . . . .

A couple of officers were enjoying their after-dinner smoke sitting in chairs tilted back against the shady side of the quartermaster's building.

"Say, captain, have you noticed anything strange about these Apaches since we brought them back to the reservation?"

"Nohting special that I can think of. They're a grisly lot anyway. Why do you ask?"

"Because I've noticed now that they keep close to headquarters and don't go out in bands of two or three; and, again, they're holding lots of pow-wows, and every day or so they bring in a dead buck."

"Oh, have you just found that out? Why, that's old to everybody but the reds, and with them it isn't allowed to get old.

"Ever since the Sandy Fork raid the Apaches have had a nemesis after them. Who it is or how many no one knows, but if a buck goes away from the crowd it's ten to one he doesn't come back, and when they start out to find him, which they usually do, he has become a good Indian."

Just then a tall gray-haired man, dressed as a scout, came past and changed the current of their conversation.

"Who is that chap?" asked the lieutenant of his brother officer, scanning the scout closely.

"I don't know," was the reply. "He comes to the post once in a while; gets a lot of stuff, mostly ammunition; never stays or stops to talk; always rides that same big bay mare."

The stranger dismounted at the door of the store and entered. He had scarcely passed out of sight when an Indian sneaked up cautiously and began to examine the horse, paying particular attention to her feet and her tracks.

"What do you suppose that buck's up to?" queried the captain.

"He's getting points so that he can trail the animal," was the reply.

"Look out! By gracious that was neat."

This exclamation was called forth by the action of the horse. The Indian, in his investigation, stooped and picked up her foot, presumably to examine the shoe. There was a quick move, a thud, and an Indian rolled over on the grass with a crushed skull.

Two or three white men ran up and the owner of the horse came out of the store. When he saw the dead brave a smile lighted up his set face as he patted his horse's neck.

"Another one, eh? Fan, that's right; keep up the work, old girl. One more scratch on the rifle breech makes 181."—Edwin Ralph Collins, in Texas Siftings.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

By an interesting coincident the suit of rooms occupied by the Prince and Princess of Wales at Cap Martin, in the Riviera, recently, was directly beneath that occupied by Eugenie, ex-Empress of the French.

Royal and ducal indignation over the approaching marriage of Duke Louis of Bavaria, to an actress is easily explained. If any branch of the royal family should by any chance get any brains in it it would be a reflection on the other branches.

When Bismarck takes his daily walks abroad he stalks with wide steps across the fields, carrying a stout cudgel. The stick does not serve him as a support, but merely as a means of keeping himself erect, since he carries it invariably across his back, held between his elbows.

Ernest Louis, the new Grand Duke of Hesse, is a rather sullen looking youth, and has himself photographed in a round cap bearing above its brim an odd round button that looks more like a coin than anything else. Somehow or other it seems natural to associate coin with Hessians.

Mrs. Jocksn, the confederate soldier's widow, is devoting all her time now to the education of her two motherless grandchildren, Julia and Jackson Christian. She is suffering from weakness of vision caused by the strain of reading the manuscript of the recently published memoirs of her husband.

Elisee Reclus is now busy with the last of the eighteen bulky volumes that will comprise his Universal Geography. The task has so far occupied him for seventeen years, and consdering the vast amount of research necessary to the production of the work, it has been speedily accomplished. Reclus s 62 years old. His fame at home is as much that of a socialist as a geographer, and during the disorderly days of the commune in Paris he was sentenced to the convict galleys, but on the appeal of nearly the entire body of scientific men in England, President Thiers commuted his sentence to perpetual banishment from France. He has since that time lived in Italy and Switzerland, but his monumental work will be published in Paris.

LOOK AT THIS.

Are these not healthy and bright children? Their appearance does not misrepresent them; they are both healthy and bright. They are the son and daughter of Mr. J. P. Wiley, of Dorchester, Mass., and he has an interesting story to tell in regard to them. The story is as follows:

"In 1885 my wife, accompanied by my little boy, at that time 11 months old, was visiting relatives in Scranton, Penna. The little fellow was suffering untold agony cutting his teeth. My wife was told to try Dr. Hand's Teething Lotion. The effect was magical. It did not stupefy the child, as most remedies of this character do; it simply soothed the pain of the burning and aching gums. I might write a volume, had I the time, praising this remedy, and then not express my feelings or do it justice, it is simply marvellous. After her return to Boston she wanted another bottle, but I found that it was unknown in this city. I corresponded with Dr. Hand, and received in reply a sample of each of his remedies. I used them on both my children, recommended them to all my friends, and have yet to find the person who, after using the remedies, especially Teething Lotion and Colic Cure, that could not praise them. People may say, and have said to me: 'Oh, there must be something in that Teething Lotion that affects a child's brain.' In reply to this, I will say I have two children a boy and girl, who have been treated with Teething Lotion since time of beginning to end of teething, and I challenge any person to furnish two with any clearer brains. I cheerfully recommend them to parents who love their little ones."

WAS AN ENJOYABLE EVENT

The Party Given by Toledo Division U. R., K. of P.

Inspection of the Division — The Silent Drill, with New Maneuvers and Other Improvements—Supper and Dancing.

An invitation to a Knights of Pythias party is always received with pleasure by those so fortunate, as they are always happy and successful events.

Toledo division, Uniform Rank, gave its seventh annual party at Pythian castle last evening, and the occasion was one of rare enjoyment. The boys laid themselves out, as the saying goes, to outdo all past affairs of the kind, and they succeeded beyond reasonable expectation.

There was a splendid attendance, not crowded, but just enough for comfort and a good time. It was a jolly assemblage, informal and sociable.

After an overture by the orchestra, the division filed into the ball room, and after executing a few maneuvers lined up and was inspected by Gen. Greene and staff.

The division then gave an exhibition of its famous silent drill. The boys have been hard at work since their last appearance before the public, and improvement was apparent in every move they made. A number of new and pretty maneuvers have been perfected, and the general movement has been wonderfully improved. The drill created great enthusiasm, and the applause was deafening when the division retired.

Dancing and supper were next on the program. The supper was fine, the fare dainty and extremely appropriate for the hour. The banquet hall was beautifully decorated and was admired by all present. The dancing continued until the small hours of morning.

HAS NO USE FOR ARNOLD

Sir Edwin Has Been Fooling the People.

Palming Off Columns of Newspaper Clippings as His Own Work on Japan.

St. Paul, Minn., April 29.—Charles Chadbourne, a Minnesota banker who is now in Japan, says in a letter received here:

"Another idol which has been rudely shattered since my arrival in Japan is Sir Edwin Arnold. I find the estimate of him here quite different from the Occidental one. He resided in Japan during the year in which he wrote his poem 'The Light of the World,' and wrote letters concerning Japan to the English press, which have since been collected and published under the title of 'Seas and Lands.' He has also published in America a book called 'Japonica,' originally a series of articles in Scribners', I believe.

"He is accused of being guilty in these letters of the most flagrant plagiarism, both from standard works on Japan, from the contemporary columns of the Japan Mail, and from the published transactions of the Asiatic society. His fulsome and indiscriminate praise of everything Japanese is greatly resented by residents here, who claim that the Japanese are by no means the perfect beings he makes them out to be, but that he has grossly misstated the facts in order to curry favor. Both his actions and his speeches are most severely criticised here."

HAVE NO EQUAL.

Allcock's Porous Plasters have attained a world-wide reputation solely upon their superlative merits. They have many would-be rivals, but have never been equalled or even approached in curative properties and rapidity and safety of action. Their value has been attested by the highest medical authorities, as well as by unimpeachable testimonials from those who have used them, and they are recommended as the best external remedy for weak back, rheumatism, sciatica, colds, coughs, sore throat, chest and stomach affections, kidney difficulties, weak muscles, strains, stitches, and aches and pains of every description.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

Two Men Lost Their Lives in the Recent Storm.

Winnipeg, Man., April 29.—Two Manitoba farmers are known to have perished in the blizzard Wednesday and other fatalities are feared.

David E. Lundy lost his way while going from Reaburn station to a hotel near by, and his dead body was found yesterday.

At Boissevain, James Taylor was walking home when the storm came on. He missed the trail and died from exposure. Taylor was well connected and a son of James W. Taylor, of Manchester, England.

The remarkable growth which, till within two years, was brought about principally by one person telling another, is a monument to Garfield Tea's merits.

IN GEN. TAYLOR'S PAPER.

Overwhelmed With Inquiries as the Result of an Advertisement.

The following letter, says the Boston Globe, is self-explanatory:

To the Editor of the Globe:—I enclose you a sample of the many letters I am receiving from all over the country, asking as to the truth of an advertisement printed in the Globe, giving my experience with Paine's celery compound.

I wish to state that I am the person who gave that recommendation to the proprietors of this compound, and that when I said it cured me of acute and chronic rheumatism, which had afflicted me for years, I wrote simply the facts of the case.

Before I used this medicine my future looked dark, miserable and hopeless, for I had tried in vain all kinds of treatment. Yet before I had taken four bottles of the Paine's celery compound I was jumping around like a two-year-old colt. I have cured some twenty of my friends with this same medicine.

Nothing gives me greater pleasure than to answer inquiries concerning the authenticity of my letter and the invaluable medicinal and curative properties of this compound, but I hope this public statement will suffice, for if my correspondence increases I will have to employ a typewrieer.

Yours truly,
C. J. O'BRIEN.

THE TELEPHONE GIRL.

Strange as it may seem, says Electricity, there are auditory as well as optical delusions. Every subscriber has two or three girls in his mind whom he considers active and obliging. He has absolutely no means of knowing who they are, but he thinks he can tell them by their voices and gets irritable when they are off duty. As an illustration, not long ago a telephone official had reason to call on a prominent subscriber, who devoted considerable time to dilating on the efficiency of his girl. He landed her to heights delightful, and had thought of recommending her to a friend for a lucrative position. The case was reported to the manager, who, upon investigation, found that the very knowing but well meaning gentleman was bewitched by the general sweetness of the telephone office voice. The line, being a particularly light one, had no regular operator, and as a general rule no less than 10 different girls handled the wire in a day. But he knew "his girl" every time, which speaks well for the vocal system in use for training voices.

Cod-liver oil suggests consumption; which is almost unfortunate. Its best use is before you fear consumption—when you begin to get thin. Consumption is only one of the dangers of thinness.

Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil makes the thin plump, and the plump are almost safe.

Let us send you a book on CAREFUL LIVING—free.

YOUR HEALTH

May depend upon the way you treat the warnings which nature gives you as the spring comes on. A few bottles of S. S. S. taken at that time may insure good health for a year or two. Therefore act at once, for it that nature be assisted at the right time. S.S.S. never fails to relieve the system of impurities and obstructions, and is an excellent tonic also.

IS IMPORTANT

He Wants to Add his Name.

"Permit me to add my name to your many other certificates in commendation of the great curative properties contained in Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) It is certainly one of the best tonics I ever used."

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Monroe Street Paving.

Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned, up to 12 o'clock at noon of Monday,

THE 9TH DAY OF MAY, 1892,

for improving Monroe street from Bancroft street to the westerly gutter line of Detroit avenue, by paving the central thirty-six feet thereof, and from the westerly gutter line of Detroit avenue to westerly city line the central forty feet thereof with Trinidad asphalt laid on a foundation of hydraulic cement concrete, together with the necessary grading, curbing, drainage, etc.

The contractor or contractors who shall do the work herein provided for shall be paid for in an assessment upon the lots and lands benefited thereby, one-half in ten days after the confirmation of the assessment and the remainder in one year thereafter, and the same manner with the Toledo Consolidated Street Ry. Co., except the part in the street intersection, which will be paid in cash by the city of Toledo, ninety days after the completion and acceptance of the work.

All bids must be written with ink and the price of each item shall be written out in full as well as in figures. Each bid must contain the full name of every person interested in the same. All parties filing bids for the matters specified in this notice, must deposit with the city clerk on each bid the sum of four hundred dollars. All deposits to be in cash or certified check on a bank doing a regular banking business in the city of Toledo, and accompanied by an agreement signed by the bidder and two disinterested persons, guaranteeing that, if the bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into—otherwise the amount deposited to be forfeited to the city; and in case a contract is entered into, said deposit to remain until the first estimate of work done, (or double the amount of deposit,) is reported to the common council.

Bidders will be required to indorse their names on the outside of the envelope containing their proposal, and what the bid is for, the same to be filed with the city clerk. Bids not filed in accordance with the above requirements will be rejected.

Blank bids and envelopes can be obtained of the undersigned or of the city civil engineer.

Bidders must specify the time within which they will commence and complete the work after the acceptance of their bid.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the city civil engineer.

The council reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the council,
C. H. DURIAN,
City Clerk.

Markets Timid While Approaching May First,

When Deals on Hand Must Be Squarred.

The World's Trading Pits Brought to the Eye of Bee Readers by the Use of Wire and Cables.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 229,410 bus., and at five other western points 117,038 bus. On this same Friday in 1891 the receipts were 117,768 bus. The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 475,734 bus., and flour to an aggregate of 630,000 bus. Export of corn, 431,321 bus., and of oats 21,029 bus.

English marwets as reported herein open stronger, and Liverpool is half penny higher on wheat and corn.

French Purchases.

New York telegraphs as follows: "France, our only customer for red wheat will soon be closed to us, as they resume old duty June 1, which adds 13 1-2c bu to the present duty."

The Markets To-day.

Chicago, the great center of speculation, abounds in tips and points to-day, but if summarized, it is of but little moment, or of influence on prices.

Amongst them is a renewed statement of crop damage in California which we do not believe.

A somewhat new feature in the export trade is the sale of 13 loads of northern spring wheat.

The belief now is current that deliveries of May wheat at Chicago will be light, but we fancy that it is pure guess work.

The weather in Ohio is elegant for wheat, but in Minnesota it is snowing hard, and generally the weather in all the spring wheat states is yet against wheat sowing and corn planting.

The outward movement see our table herein, is large to-day. In wheat it equals 630 000 bu and corn 431,000 bu.

American markets for wheat have been quiet and firm to-day. Fluctuations have been within narrow limits, but prices have favored sellers. Speaking of the May deal in general terms, the interest is drawing to a close, and it is said the largest lines of short wheat at Chicago have bee liquidated, and if this be true any expected flurry may not materialize. When the market is divested of artificial conditions, we are quite curious to know what will be the outcome of present discrepencies in prices of winter and spring wheat.

During the forenoon the wheat markets have been 1-4 to 1-2c better, but closed at a trifle less advance.

Corn has been maintained and closes a shade better. The feature of the day being a corner on April in New York, where 65c was bid at the close.

Berlin, London and Paris all closed a shade higher on wheat.

In New York May wheat closed 1-8 and July 3-8 better. May corn 1-8 lower, and July 1-8 higher. May oats 1-8 lower.

In Chicago May wheat closed 1-4 and July 1-8 higher. May corn 3-8 and July 1-8 higher. May oats 1-8 lower.

In Toledo we have had a firm wheat market, with only moderate trading, and narrow differences. Prices on futures closed 1-8c better all around. On the call May wheat sold at 91c to 90 7-8c. July a 84 7-8c to 85c, closing at 84 7-8c. After the call May wheat sold at 91c to 90 1-2c, and closed at 90 7-8c. July sold at 84 3-4c to 84 1-2c and closed at 84 7-8c. June sold at 88 1-2c. Cash wheat was in fair request, and sold at May price. No. 2 soft at 91c to 90 3-4c. No. 3 soft at 88 1-2c, rejected No. 1 at 84c. No. 1 northern sold to arrive at 89c.

Corn—No. 2, 40 1-3c, and May, 40 1-2c asked; No. 3 at 39 3-4c; No. 4 at 38 1-4c.

Clover seed—Very little doing; no change.

New York Close.

New York, April 29.—Flour steady; Minnesota extra, $2 65@5 00; superfine, $2 25@3 00; fine, $2 00@2 75; city mill extra, $4 75@4 85 for West Indies.

Wheat firm; No. 2 red winter, 90 3-4c cash; 94 3-8c April; 90 3-4c May; 90 3-8c June.

Corn dull but firm; No. 2 mixed, 51c cash; 53c April; 47 1-8c May; 45 1-2c June.

Oats dull; No. 2 mixed, 34c cash; 35 3-4c May; 33 1-2c July.

Rye steady; 80@83c.

Barley neglected.

Molasses weak; New Orleans 30@36c. Sugar refined quiet; cut loaf and crushed 5 1-8c; powdered 4 5-8c. Coffee dull; fair rio cargoes 15 3-4c. Pork dull; mess $10.50@11.00 for new. Lard quiet; $6.50 May; $6.65 July. Butter weak; new western extra 21 1-2@22c. Cheese strong; state fancy 11 3-4@12c. Eggs steady; state choice 15c; western 15c. Turpentine dull; 34 1-4@34 1-2c. Rosin slow; strained to good $1.45@1.50. Tallow steady; prime city 4 3-4c. Petroleum nominal. Freights quiet; grain to Liverpool steam 2 1-2d.

Money easy at 1 1-2@2 per cent. Exchange quiet; posted rates, 4 88@4 89 1-2; actual rates, 4 86 3-4@4 87 for 60 days and 4 88 1-4@4 88 1-2 for demand.

Governments steady; currency 6's, 1 09 bid; extended 2's registered, 1 00 bid; 4's coupon, 1 15 3-4 bid.

Stocks were excessively dull this morning only 98 000 shares were sold. Prices were irregular. In the early dealings values improved 1-8@1 1-8 per cent., the latter in sugar. Toward the end of the hour some selling caused the loss of most of the advance. In the second hour prices hardened and at noon values were generally slightly higher than those of last evening. At this writing the market is featureless.

CHICAGO OPENING.

Chicago, April 29.—Opening: Wheat—May, 80 5-8c; July, 81 1-8c. Corn—May, 40 1-8c; July, 39c. Oats—May, 28 1-4@28 3-8c. Pork—May, $9.35; July, $9.55. Lard—May, $6.25; July, $6.30. Ribs—May, $5.60; July, $5.27 1-2.

Cotton.

St. Louis, April 29.—The market is steady. Middling at 7c. Receipts 400 bales, shipments 1,200 bales, stock 103,300 bales, sales 2,000 bales.

Memphis, April 29.—The market is firm. Middling selling at 7c. Receipts 372 bales, shipments 1,057 bales, stock 52,256 bales, sales 900 bales.

Turpentine.

Wilmington, April 29.—Steady at 30 3-4c.

Savannah, April 29.—Firm at 31 1-4c.

Charleston, April 29.—Steady at 31c.

Dry Goods.

New York, April 29.—Business in dry goods was somewhat less active, following yesterday's partial holiday. But no change was noted in the character of the demand. Flannels, both woolen and cotton, were in chief interest, with considerable doing, but nothing was active in general trade.

London Wool.

London, April 29.—At the wool sales today, 14,000 bales of an average quality were offered. The attendance was large and the competition was generally active. The apathy of married men is astonishing. The ladies of an English town recently held a debate at which the subject of discussion was: "Should ladies open their husbands' letters?" The discussion seems to have become very warm, indeed, in the course of which one young and innocent maiden timidly ventured to state she thought that ladies should not open their husbands' letters, and characterized such a proceeding as "inquisitive, unwomanly, and improper." All the matrons present immediately sat upon her, and one stern, Minerva-like lady proposed an amendment, to the effect "that ladies were perfectly and legally justified in opening their husbands' letters, and also in making the fullest inquiries into all their business transactions." This was carried on by and overwhelming majority. One would like to know if matrimony is popular down that way, and how many of the downtrodden sex get their letters addressed to their clubs. Meanwhile, may one remind ladies of the instructive little fable in which one Blue Beard once figured?

JUST A LITTLE HELP.

That Is All Which Is Required at This Time of the Year—Do You Know What to Do?

We hear a great deal, just now, about Spring medicines. It is known that people feel run down after the labors and siege of winter, and it is assumed they need a spring medicine. This is not true. Spring medicines are not needed; nature will throw off the rheums in the blood which have accumulated during the winter, if she has only a little help. Nature is able to clean her own house, and take care of her own household, with a little assistance, and a little gentle stimulant is all the spring medicine anyone requires. "But," you may say, "what do you mean by stimulant, and what do I require?" We answer, something absolutely pure, powerful and which has been proved to abundantly answer the purpose. Unquestionably, whisky, if of the right kind, is the proper thing to use, but unfortunately, there are few good whiskies in the market, and only one which is absolutely pure, and possesses medicinal qualities. That whisky is Duffy's Pure Malt. It has been upon the market for years. It has the unqualified endorsement of physicians and chemists, and it is the only whisky which can be recommended. It is true, certain unscrupulous druggists and grocers seek to sell other and inferior goods, claiming they are equal to Duffy's, but they possess little purity and no medicinal power whatever, whereas Duffy's is specially designed as a medicinal whisky. It would be well to bear these facts in mind when considering the subject of spring medicines, and how to best put the system in shape for the requirements of the season.

RAW AS BEEF-STEAK

Baby's Fearful Suffering from Skin Disease Covering Entire Body Cured by Cuticura.

My baby was taken very sick when he was three months old, and in a few days began breaking out. We employed both of the home doctors, and they could do nothing for him. Then we went for the best doctor in Eaton Rapids, Mich., and he doctored him for two weeks, and he got worse all the time; and then I took him to Jackson, to a doctor who attends especially to skin diseases and then he got worse than ever. Then I told my husband we had better try the CUTICURA REMEDIES any way; did not have any idea they would do any good, but in less than two months from the time we began giving them to him he was entirely well and not a spot on him. His hair began growing right off, and we thought it would always be baldheaded. There was not a spot on his whole body, face and head, only his nose and eyes but what was as raw as beef-steak. So poor there was not anything but bones and so weak he could raise neither hand nor head.

Mrs. FRANK BARRETT, Winfield, Mich.

Cuticura Resolvent

The new Blood and Skin Purifier, and greatest of humor remedies, cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause, while CUTICURA, the great Skin Cure, and CUTICURA SOAP, an exquisite Skin Beautifier, clear the skin and scalp, and restore the hair. Thus the CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every species of itching, burning, scaly, pimply, and blotchy skin, scalp and blood diseases, from pimples to scrofula, from infancy to age, when the best physicians fail.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1; Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston, Mass. Send for "How to Cure Blood Diseases."

BABY'S Skin and Scalp purified and beautified by CUTICURA SOAP. Absolutely pure.

RHEUMATIC PAINS

In one minute the Cuticura Anti-Pain Plaster relieves rheumatic, sciatic, hip, kidney, chest and muscular pains and weaknesses. Price 30c.

Saturday night he will give his popular lecture on "The Beauties of the British Isles."

The ex-queen of Naples, who has suffered all the pangs of genteel poverty during the past 20 years or more, has now been placed in a comparatively affluent position. Her mother, the late duchess of Ludovica, of Bavaria, who died some weeks ago, left a fortune yielding an income of about $100,000 a year. The ex-queen figures as the heroine in Daudet's "Kings in Exile."

EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."
Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in half-pound tins, by Grocers, labelled thus:

Officer A. H. Braley
of the Fall River Police
Is highly gratified with Hood's Sarsaparilla. He was badly run down, had no appetite, what he did eat caused distress and he felt tired all the time. A few bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla effected a marvellous change. The distress in the stomach is entirely gone, he feels like a new man, and can eat anything with old-time relish. For all of which he thanks and cordially recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is very important that during the months of March April May the blood should be thoroughly purified and the system be given strength to withstand the debilitating effect of the changing season. For this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses peculiar merit and it is the Best Spring Medicine.
March April May
The following, just received, demonstrates its wonderful blood-purifying powers:
"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:
"Gentlemen: I have had salt rheum for a number of years, and for the past year one of my legs, from the knee down, has been broken out very badly. I took blood medicine for a long time with no good results, and was at one time obliged to walk with crutches. I finally concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and before I had taken one bottle the improvement was so marked that I continued until I had taken three bottles, and am now better than I have been in years. The Inflammation has all left my leg and it is entirely healed. I have had such benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla
that I concluded to write this voluntary statement." F. J. TEMPLE, Ridgeway, Mich.
